

Food and Allergies

In our continued efforts to protect students and staff with life-threatening allergies, please do not send peanut butter substitutes to school. It's difficult to tell the difference between a substitute and real peanut butter. Let's err on the side of safety.